

Sarah Burnham

Creative Beginnings Christian Preschool Director

Sarah has worn many hats at CBCP. She first joined as a parent in 2022 and became a teacher in 2023, where she loved spending time in the two-year-old class before stepping into the role of Director. Her experience as both a parent and teacher has given her a special appreciation for the relationships and community that make CBCP so special.

Sarah believes that young children learn best through play, exploration, meaningful relationships, and hands-on experiences. With the support of our wonderful teachers, she hopes to help each child build a strong foundation, develop a lifelong love for learning, and feel confident as they grow. She is passionate about creating a warm and nurturing environment where every child feels loved, valued, and encouraged to discover the world around them.

Most importantly, Sarah looks forward to introducing children to the wonder of God's love and the beauty of His Creation while supporting our teachers and families along the way. She is excited to help CBCP continue to grow and provide a loving, faith-filled beginning for each child.
